Office of the Commanding General
Fort Knox, Kentucky

MEN OF THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION:

I wish to commend you, and thank you personally, for your cheerful devotion to duty and efficient accomplishment of missions.

In the days to come let us, by our smart soldierly bearing, professional skill, and loyal devotion to duty, strive to enhance the reputation of this fighting "Spearhead" Division.

To those who leave us in the service of their country over the world, keep your chin up, make us proud of you, and the best of luck wherever you may serve.

GORDON B. ROGERS
Major General, U. S. Army
Commanding

MAJOR GENERAL
GORDON B. ROGERS
*Commanding General,
3d Armored Division*

Major General Gordon B. Rogers was born in Manchester, Tennessee in 1901. He was commissioned Second Lieutenant of Cavalry when he graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1924.

His first assignment was as a Cavalry Troop Commander in the 1st Cavalry Regiment. General Rogers attended the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas, in 1928. In 1930 he was a member of the Olympic Horse Show Team and in 1934 played on the Army Polo Team.

Following troop duty in the 10th and 2d Cavalry Regiments, General Rogers attended the Command and General Staff School. Upon graduation in 1939 he was assigned to the 6th Cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, where he served as a Troop and a Squadron Commander. In February 1942 he joined the 3d Cavalry Regiment and became its Regimental Commander.

In July, 1942, the general was made G2 of I Corps, then located at Columbia, South Carolina. He stayed with the Corps as it moved first to Australia and then to New Guinea. In December of that year he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism in the Papuan Campaign, New Guinea. The Distinguished Service Cross is the nation's second highest award for valor on the battlefield. An Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Cross was awarded him for another act of valor in New Guinea later in December 1942.

Following his tour with the I Corps, General Rogers became G2 of the Army Ground Forces, remaining with that headquarters until September, 1945. He was next assigned to the War Department General Staff in Washington, D.C. as Chief of the Training Branch of the Office of the Director of Intelligence.

In September, 1946, General Rogers returned to the Far East as commander of the 12th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division. In 1948, he successively commanded the First Cavalry Brigade and the 5th Cavalry Regiment.

Upon his return to the United States in July, 1949, the general was appointed Director of the Department of Intelligence at the Command and General Staff College. A year later he became a member of the Army War College faculty and was appointed its acting Deputy Commandant in March, 1952.

General Rogers again went to the Far East in 1952. He was appointed Assistant Division Commander of the 40th Infantry Division in June and the following April received his appointment as Deputy Chief of the Korean Military Advisory Group.

After a month's service as Deputy Chief, he was appointed Chief of the United States Military Advisory Group to the Republic of Korea on May 15, 1953, where he served until his return to the United States in October. Following that assignment he was appointed Commanding General of the 3d Armored Division. He assumed command of the Division on January 5, 1954.

General Rogers was promoted to his present rank August 1, 1953. In addition to the Distinguished Service Cross with Cluster, he holds the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster; Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters; Purple Heart; Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster; Commendation Ribbon with Oak Leaf Cluster; Combat Infantryman Badge; Distinguished Unit Badge; Taeguk with Silver Star, and the Republic of Korea Presidential Citation.

HISTORY / 3d ARMORED DIVISION

"Spearhead in Peace as in War"

THE 3D ARMORED DIVISION won its nickname of the "Spearhead" Division while leading the attacking American forces across Europe in World War II. The term came from the oft-used expression of General J. Lawton Collins, VII Corps Commander, "You will spearhead the attack," in giving his orders to Major General Maurice Rose, who was then Division Commander.

SPEARHEADERS were the first Americans to enter Belgium, the first to fire an artillery shell at German soil, the first to break through the Siegfried Line and the first to capture a German city. "First" has always been a 3d Armored Division precedent, both in its combat history and its training mission.

THE 3d Armored Division was activated at Camp Beauregard, Louisiana, in 1941. After initial training at Beauregard, the Division moved to Camp Polk, Louisiana, and then to the Mojave Desert Training Center in California. There were later moves to Camp Pickett, Virginia, and then to Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pennsylvania, and on September 5, 1943, the Division was on the high seas headed for Europe.

TRAINING continued in England at a feverish pitch, and on June 23, 1944, forward elements of the Division landed on Omaha White Beach, below Isigny, France. On June 29, Combat Command "A" was committed at Villiers Fossard near St. Lo. For the Spearheaders, it was their baptism of fire, their introduction to combat.

AFTER a slow fight through the Normandy hedgerows, the Spearhead's advance began to gain momentum rapidly. Within two months, the Division had crossed the Seine River, taking only an additional 18 days to sweep through Belgium.

NEXT came the cracking of the "impenetrable" Siegfried Line and the crossing to German soil. The once green Spearheader Division was now one of the most feared striking units in the entire United States Army.

DURING the Battle of the Bulge progress was temporarily halted, but as the German advance fizzled, the "Spearhead" began rolling again, picking up speed as it moved deeper and deeper into Germany. One of the Division's most famous accomplishments was a one-day advance of 101 miles—the longest in military history. The Spearhead's drive continued until VE-Day was officially proclaimed.

AFTER brief occupation duty the 3d Armored Division was inactivated on November 9, 1945, at Aalen, Germany, but this was not to be the end of the brilliant record of the Spearhead Division.

THE 3d Armored Division was reactivated on July 15, 1947. Its re-creation stemmed from a decision by Department of the Army in 1947 to give to the Replacement Training Centers, as they were then called, the names of wartime divisions with outstanding combat records. Military officials saw this as a means of encouraging enlistments and building up morale and "esprit de corps" for both trainees and permanent party.

IT WAS natural that the 3d Armored Division should be one of the units chosen for reactivation, for the World War II record of the Spearhead Division was indeed outstanding. During 221 days of frontline combat, the Division spearheaded nearly every major attack by the United States First Army in Europe.

IN ITS present training mission, the 3d Armored Division is maintaining its "Spearhead" precedent. In the summer of 1953 it trained the first light infantry "carrier company" composed of four-man "buddy teams," and in January 1954 it graduated the Army's first Armor "packet platoons."
